- Yearly 1,500 tons of existing production capacity with expansion facility: The Company have 1,500 tons of production capacity and they have the capability to increase the capacity of the production in near future.

Weakness of CTIL:

- Lack of operational efficiency: As the company is new in operation in this business segment unskilled man power take some time to be skilled. The company have lack of efficiency in their operational activity; they have a strong experienced management. By utilizing the experiences and skills of the management, CTIL can minimize the lack of operational efficiency.
- Less Geographical Coverage for Distribution of production: Coppertech factory is located only in Hobiganj and their distribution channel is not efficient to cover the other part of Bangladesh. Threat for CTIL:

- High Competition in world market: Though the local competition is not much but the users of the product still depend on the imported cooper products. The competition in world market is high. If the company can enhance the operational efficiency and able to attract the local consumer, they can minimize the competition with the foreign companies in local context.
- Unpredicted raw material price in world market: The raw material price of the copper is uncertain because of the world economies upward and downward movement. And the dollar price is also increasing significantly. The company do not have the control over the economy but they can balance the overall situation by reducing the production cost.
